LANGUAGE REQUIREMENTS FOR CANDIDATES TO UNIVERSIDAD
CEU SAN PABLO

Accreditation of linguistic competence in Spanish and English

All candidates should complete a language test as part of the admission process.

The test that you will take will be determined by the language in which you will study your degree.

- Degrees taught in Spanish: the Spanish test is obligatory if a candidate is not a native Spanish speaker. All the degrees taught in Spanish require a B2 level for admission (except for the Degree in Physiotherapy taught in Spanish). The English test is obligatory for all candidates, but the result will not have an impact on the resolution of the admission process.
- Degrees taught in English: the English test is obligatory for all candidates. For some degrees, a specific level of English is required (see below).
- Degrees taught in English and Spanish: the Spanish test is obligatory if a candidate is not a native Spanish speaker. The required level of Spanish is B2. The English test is obligatory for all candidates. In some degrees, a specific level of English is required (see below the required level of English for bilingual degrees).
- Degree in Physiotherapy (taught in Spanish): the Spanish test is obligatory if a candidate is not a native Spanish speaker. The required level of Spanish is B2 (or B1 with the commitment to reach B2 level within 1 year). The English test is obligatory for all candidates, but the result will not have an impact on the resolution of the admission process.

Below, we indicate the certificates and levels of English required to be admitted in an international degree (in English or bilingual) and in the IBPs (degree + a certificate from an American university).
